BEHIND the Unity

Unity. What does it mean to be united? In our school - in our community - unity means being a Lancer. We are leaders. We are friends. We pick each other up in times of tragedy and celebrate each other in times of triumph. Unity looks like the crowd at a football game, the audience of a play or concert, and the mass of dancers at Dance Marathon. Look around, and you'll see our FFA shirts, our basketball shirts, our art shirts, our Special Runners shirts - we wear our unity with pride. We support each other, we we build each other up, and we care about each other. Unity at North Scott is a way of life.

Jake Fenn

May 27, 2004 - July 3, 2018

Many of Jake Fenn's former teammates played their first year of high school basketball without him. As a tribute, players that were especially close to Jake wrote his name on the sides of their basketball shoes. Coach Rucker and the team also made sure Jake was with them in spirit throughout the season. The Freshmen shooting shirts were specially created with a basketball logo on the back bearing Jake's initials and Jake was always listed as the "12th Man" on the roster. The most touching reminder was at every game, home or away, the team left an empty seat on the bench in Jake's honor and his shooting shirt was placed over the back. Even though basketball season is over, Jake's memory will be carried on by his teammates and everyone who knew and loved him.

Our community is centered around North Scott High School. The unique relationships we share with the community can not be replicated. In the 61 years of Lancer Pride, our community has grown in size and become more united. Generation through generation, Lancer Nation has grown to be a strong community. At North Scott, we stand as one in times of adversity and celebrate together in times of triumph.

Nile McLaughlin, 12, awaits the snap from the center. The quarterback says, "the only thing going through my head is 'where is Carson Rollinger?'"

During the playoff game, the Lancers defeat Waverly-Shellrock and advance to the second round.

T.J. Yates runs his route to ensure the team runs the best play possible.

Glue of the Community

It's Friday night. The school year had just begun and the entire North Scott district has waited another year for a new football season to start. The 2018 season was the first year North Scott played as a division 3A school. Senior Cade Akers says, "we will take no team lightly and treat every game like it's the state championship. We practice hard everyday and watch as much film as possible." After a disappointing start to the season the Lancers made a comeback and didn't lose another regular season game. While for years, the team has been reminding us all that 'Dome is Home' the team, unfortunately, did not make it to the UNI Dome but did continue to remind the community that they were a team that brought everyone together.

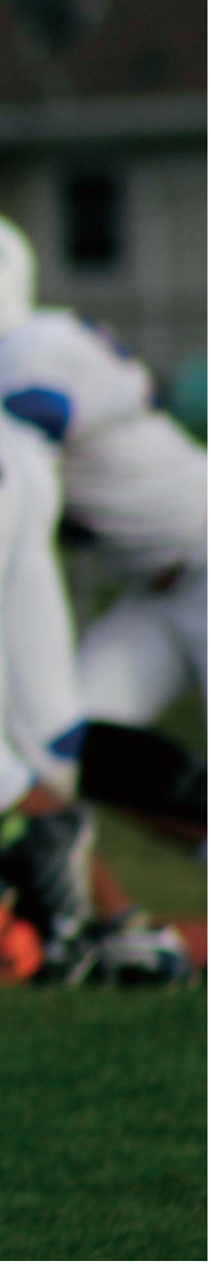
North Scott converges on the ball, while the quarterback is watching his pass spiral through the air.



One on One

North Scott knocks the Devils. Andrew Chizek, 10, puts a hit on one of the Davenport Centrals players. North Scott played Davenport Central at Lancer Stadium and ended up with a spontaneous win, despite the Blue Devils strong hearted players. Andrew Chizek, 10, says “We knew ahead of time that Davenport Central had some good players. We couldn't get ahead of ourselves, so the coaches kept telling us to play how we normally did, and we should do fine against them." The sophomore football season went very well. Despite having many games get canceled, they pushed through. The team kept their focus on their goal of succeeding and did not get sidetracked. The freshman football team also had a good season, they kept their minds on the game and played the best that they could. Freshman Carter Loehr said, “I think our team had good focus throughout the season. At times we got off track but we were able to bring it back together and win games.”

On Top of the World

Cheer Leads the Crowd

Spreading spirit around the school and setting a good example for people around this community is what being a cheerleader is all about. Senior Maisie Knutsen, a dedicated member of the cheerleader team describes her time spent cheering on the Lancer crowd. Being a senior cheerleader isn't always about being on top of the pyramid. It's about doing cheers on the track and having a little girl copying the cheers that you do, so she can be just like you. Leading the student section for the Lancer to get a touchdown is always exciting. When you get the opportunity to be the main flyer on the team and hitting your stunts perfectly is the best feeling in the world. Hearing the crowd go wild, getting the vibe that you are doing something right. Having your adrenaline kick in and with butterflies in your stomach, when you first step foot on that field, at that moment you feel like you are a superwomen, and take all the confidence you have and put it our there in the world. Cheering through out all my high school years, there are priceless moments and sometimes it just takes your breath away. "My favorite memory I'd have to say is team bonding, swimming at coach's house and playing competitive games to win prizes, and working as a team. I'm thrilled to have cheered all these years with my awesome teammates and gotten a chance to inspire others to be on top of the world as well".

Not all teams have a pet, but the North Scott Dance Team sure does. The pet is a fish named Harvey. He was bought to bring the team good luck and great memories. Residing with, Olivia Wessel, 10, she talked about Harvey's health shortly before his death saying, "He's alive, but I think there's something wrong with it." Although his life was short lived, he will be remembered by us all. RIP 11/7/18

Dance it Out

Heartbreak, happiness, and friendship. Just a few words used to describe a year like no other for this team. Consisting of only eleven girls and one manager, the group was the smallest it had been in years. This formed strong bonds and friendships between teammates. Although the team had a new connection, the state championships brought a new sadness. Having received 2nd in Pom, 3rd in Lyrical, and 6th in Jazz; heartbreak had consumed the team. As they watched and congratulated other teams for receiving 1st, the Silver Shakers looked at the positives and there were no tears shed this state season. Senior, Dana Gehrls, mentions a positive they had remembered, "we had worked really hard this season and beating a hard team like Liberty felt really rewarding, no matter what places we got." From team pets and sleepovers, to inside jokes and haters, this year has been a very transformative period for the team! "NSDT...the REAL glue of this community" -Kenedy Bender, 12.

One Band One Sound

"Out, down up!"

Playing under the lights, marching one beat at a time, the Lancer Marching Band's performances throughout the football season were spectacular. Marching band comes with struggles, but also comes with great memories too. "The most difficult thing about being on drum line is keeping everyone on tempo. We tend to rush a little bit, so it's important for us to keep the band on track," said senior Dana Gehrls. The band is not only a group of students coming together, they're more like a big family. "The drum line is very close, we're like a family. Throughout high school I have had only positive experiences with being in drum line and we always have a good time whether it is at a football or basketball game" said Dana. Playing in front of friends and family can be easy, but when it comes to performing in front of the crowd at Lancer Stadium, it can be very overwhelming. One of their performances at halftime consisted of songs by the rock band Queen, including Bohemian Rhapsody and We Are the Champions. The 8th grade band joined them to play Don't Stop Me Now. Nick Upmeyer, a senior trumpet player said, "It is really great for the 8th graders to have a chance to play part of a halftime show with the high schoolers. It gives them a chance to see what high school band is all about."

Running for Success

This cross country season was a whirlwind for senior Sommer Clydesdale. Sommer has been competing in cross country since freshman year, and has remained a three year state qualifier. When asked about her participation in cross country, she began to detail her first experience with running. Clydesdale talked about her memories of running road races with her dad; road races such as the Moonlight Chase. The Moonlight Chase had impacted Clydesdale's choice in participating in cross country. As a freshman, Clydesdale had qualified for state and placed top five. Her sophomore and junior year, she had again qualified for State. During her senior year of cross country, Sommer sadly experienced a turn of events. In the days prior to the meet that would determine Sommer's state qualification, she had suffered a hip and shoulder injury. Though, when Sommer was asked about her following efforts in cross country, she explained that she worked as hard as ever through her injury to aim for a spot at a fourth year at state. While talking to Sommer, Abbi Lafrenz was present. When asked to about a positive memory from this season, Clydesdale and Lafrenz both smiled as they agreed a great memory was a Saturday morning practice at Crow Creek where the team struggled to run up a muddy hill. The messy day was one to remember.

Most of the freshman team have been playing volleyball for a very long time. Brooklyn Harvey,10, says "I have been playing volleyball since 5th grade. My sister and my dad both played volleyball so they thought I would enjoy it, which I do." When asked what the biggest challenge of the season was, Delaney Holmes, 9, said "The biggest challenge of this season was a volleyball game we had at Pleasant Valley. We were playing against them and they had teams that were very competitive and very focused and into the game. They made it a challenge for the Lancers because they were just as good as us. They beat us the first time we played against them, then they beat us again at the Lancer Invitational Tournament leaving us in 2nd place and them in 1st place."

With the varsity team gaining two new additions, there was bound to be new opportunities within the team. Ella McLaughlin and Grace Graham are freshmen starting their high school volleyball career on the varsity team. This may be familiar, given senior, Bailee Kroeger, has been on the varsity team since her freshman year. Bailee describes this year as a "pretty good season with many talented players." The most memorable games of the season were against Clinton High School. "Everyone played pretty well. The team bonded a lot and you could tell we had pretty good chemistry together," said Bailee. "I think the biggest challenge for us was having the freshmen adjust to playing at such a high level. They killed it though."

After his tee shot fell off the fairway into the rough, Peyton Watkins, 12, takes his second shot which set him up for par. Watkins says, "I was glad I could get back to the green after that tee shot."

With a rough first shot on hole three, Owen Popelka, 10, makes an attempt to save the hole. Popelka says, "I was Tiger Woods for a hot sec."

A New Look

A New Coach Brings new Opportunity

At the start of the 2018 season, the North Scott Golf team had a new head coach, Collin Ellis. Owen Long, 12, says "It was a good change for this year, we bonded better as a team; which lead to more success." This season the boys had great success under Ellis, Isaac Neymeyer, 12, says, "regardless of our scores, this season felt more successful because we were a closer team and had more fun." This season, most of the Varsity team was made up of seniors. Reece Sommers, 12 says, "It was great to get to golf under a new coach, this season was a lot different than ones in the past. We had more fun, which lead to more success." Individually the boys did well this season; seniors Mitchell Temperly and Reece Sommers both shot an average of 84 on 18 holes. Temperly says "The team worked very well and all of our guys had solid meets which continuously put us in contention."

After an errant first shot on a par three late in the round, Isaac Neymeyer, 12, had his work cut out for him. His following shot landed within 5 feet of the pin, setting him up for a par. Neymeyer says, "You just have to put bad shots behind you and focus on the recovery shot."

From in front of the green, Mitchell Temperly, 12, puts one close; leading to a par putt. Temperly says, "golf is a mind game as much as physical."

In the tee box of hole seven, Keaton Murphy, 12, takes his first shot of the hole. Murphy says, "When you get in the tee box you've got to put what ever happened on the last hole behind you."

Powder Puff

Very different from previous years, Powder Puff, where girls play football, was moved from its regular date due to a storm that didn't happen. Usually on the football field, Powder Puff took place on the soccer field for the first time. Junior, Kendall McNaull, comments on the move and what it was like winning, when she says, "our team enjoyed the football field last year, but the soccer field was a good change up. There was more room for all the teams. The Blitz Chicks (our team) came to win and we will again next year when we're seniors!" Being one of the main events during the homecoming week, Powder Puff will remain a celebrated event.

Crowds And Rain Flooded the Stadium

Senior, Katie Seeman, recalls her experience at the homecoming varsity game: "Being at the homecoming football game as a Lancer was a necessity, especially as a senior. All day people talked about the pending weather, but nothing was going to keep me from watching this game--and I'm not even a football fan. As the crowds flooded into the stadium, the student section was like a can of sardines. During the first quartet the rain sprinkled off and on but by the time half time came it was pouring. Everyone had to clear the bleachers and the game was called off for thirty minutes. So my friend and I went and got ice cream while we waited out the storm. Each time we would grab our umbrellas and get ready to head back into Lancer stadium lightning would strike and another thirty minutes would have to pass. This went on for two hours or so. Finally around ten thirty we were back in the stadium. We sat on my soaking wet blanket because it was just a little warmer than the bench, cuddled together under my umbrella, while the rain hammered down. Finally, the boys ran on the field and those in the stands were ecstatic. People were screaming because they were the ones who really cared. The rain kept coming, the delays kept extending. But the final victory was worth the wait."

Tuggin' For the Crown

While the Homecoming football game was interuppted by lightning and rain, the days before were almost perfect. The week was kicked off with a pep aud led by Mr. Hubner. Besides the announcement of the candidates for the king and queen, the assembly included games for the classes to compete against each other. Tug-of-war was one of the last activities played. The seniors won against all the other classes and then they were up against the staff. The seniors threw everyone for a surprise. Coach Kelly blew his whistle and the senior team let go of the rope which sent the staff team flying backwards! Luckily no one was hurt. The potenital seniors nomanated for king and queen were announced: Gordy Field, Jacob Porth, Caleb McCabe, Nile McLaughlin and Connor Oetzmann. Next, Maddie Allison, Rylie Rucker, Lauryn Youngers, Katie Jackovich and Rachel Drechsler. Thursday night started with the Homecoming Parade and ended with coronation. Lancer Productions won first place in the parade. The Silver Shakers danced with the varsity football players, and the cheerleaders did a short routine.

Finally, the crowning of the next king and queen were crowned by Mrs. Sambdman. The 2018 King was Connor Oetzmann and the 2018 Queen was Rylie Rucker.

A Murder Mystery

All eyes on Alex Denison as he solves the mystery of his fiances murder.

As the Auditorium renovations finished, the Lancer Productions season started up with Rehearsal for Murder. With a small and simple show. The main character, Alex Denison, played by Cooper Harrison, tries to figure out who killed his beloved fiance, Monica Welles, played by Emma Hughes.While Alex Denison shines on stage, Cooper Harrison delivers in his first big role in a show. Harrison, making his debut on stage in Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat last season, elaborates on how different it was to be in a straight play rather than a musical; “Being in a straight show was different because there isn't the constant music to help move the story along, instead, it's just the script and the actors carrying the story along.” While the shows in Lancer Productions always come out being amazing during performances, behind the curtains and during rehearsals could be a struggle. Harrison explains challenges of doing the show for him; “The most difficult part of the show was the memorization of all of the long monologues and keeping the sequence of events straight in my head so we didn't skip any major beats of the story.” Although plays can be hard, the end result is always very rewarding. Everyone always has a favorite memory from the show, whether it is from during a performance, in rehearsal, or outside of it all. Harrison elaborates on highlights; “Overall my favorite part was being given the opportunity to perform in the show without much experience acting before. Starring in a show was never something I imagined I would ever be able to do, so getting the opportunity and experience to do it was amazing.”

Crossing Curriculum with Creativity!

In Mrs. Labers only World History class, she helps students learn the material by linking interests with the unit. Ryann was asked to do a drawing by Mrs. Laber that included things from the unit such as mythology, and pottery. Before starting, Ryann did research in order to know why she was including some of the things in her drawing. Ryann drew Medusa to represent mythology, learning about this topic along the way. "I couldn't have asked for a better way to learn this material" Ryann said. "I think what helped the most is that Mrs. Laber is an artist herself, she knows the mind of one and wanted to do her best to help me." Crossing the learned material with an individual mind helped improve the academic preformace of this particular student.

He shoots, and he scores! Junior V'ondre Haywood, JV number 33, explains what it feels like when he sees his team make a basket, "It feels good just to see the ball go through the net. It makes the team confident about our next shot we take." He says the best thing that helps them to do their best is hearing the crowd cheer, "When the crowd is cheering it boosts confidence throughout the team and makes us better at putting the ball in the basket and guarding on defense." Although the sport is fun on the court he also thinks that the family like bond of the team is also a major plus saying, "our team is a family. We fight and argue just like normal families but at the end of the day we love each other and we push each other to be better." V'ondre proves his love of basketball isn't all about the sport, but also is about the bonds, relationships and ultimately the family like friendships that will last a long time.

The teams would meet again later in the season as the #1 & #2 ranked teams in the state.

When asked about the game against Bettendorf, junior, Ty Anderson, recalled what the atmosphere was like during the game. "The game was full of energy all throughout. Hearts beating fast, running out of breath, the crowd going wild, Carly Webb shouts out to her teammates through the tough game. With Ava Garrard's continuous layups and frequent free-throws the team made efforts to keep scoring. Despite their ongoing efforts, the team discussed how the opposing team had a strong defense after multiple teammates including Carly, found themselves falling and being pushed onto the court. After their tough, but well fought loss Carly quotes, "We tried our hardest, we played our defense really good. Although we lost, we played with all our heart". We're All in this Together

The closeness of the Varsity girls' basketball team has been evident throughout the season. This groups excellent teamwork has led them to many exciting victories. Aiden Bahls, manager, recalls a memorable game against undefeated Bettendorf. "Shut down their star center player with the combined efforts of defense players Grace Boffeli and Adriane Latham and the 23 points scored by Rylie Rucker didn't hurt either." To get pumped up for these intense games, the team has "pre-game hype sessions" where they listen to their favorite songs, such as Mo Bamba. A main focus in their practices throughout the year was playing together as a team, and they seemed to have accomplished this goal. But their togetherness did not come without some team bonding. When the juniors were asked their favorite part of the season, they responded "celebrating the holidays with the team." As the season closed, this group had many fun memories and played as a team when it really counted.

Pride.
Tradition.
Excellence.

More than just words on their varsity poster: pride, tradition, and excellence defined this year's lancer wrestling season. The Junior Varsity team earned the MAC championship spot, the Varsity team placed high in nationally ranked tournaments, and several team members, Collin Lewis, Caleb McCabe, Jake Matthaidess and Josh Connor, earned the MAC championship title individually. However, the success did not come with out some hard work. Collin Lewis a senior and varsity member explains, "the amount of effort that the men in the wrestling room put towards the sport is incredible, whether that be the coaches or the wrestlers" and this year the varsity team trained extra hard with eight new varsity members. They did not let the team's inexperience hold them back though. This year, the varsity team traveled to various states to compete in tournaments the North Scott wrestling program had previously never been to and wrestled against nationally ranked teams. As Coach Kelly said, "we've been all around the country to wrestle the best people we can find." Lewis also reflected on these tournaments by saying, "I am glad we got the opportunity to face some of the best wrestlers around and lay a whoopin on a couple of them." Although the wrestlers work extremely hard, they have some fun too. Quentin Allison recalls his favorite memory from this year when he said, "The best memory from the season was the van ride home from Cedar Falls when Coach Kelly was too scared to full send it at the McDonald's drive through." From tough practices to new tournaments to fun bus rides, Caleb McCabe perfectly sums up the season when he said, "Its been an adventure."

Two Headed Monster

At the start of the bowling season the Lancers had high expectations. No one could imagine where the season would take the top two bowlers. Isaac Neymeyer and Brock Larson, both seniors, for a short time the number one and two ranked bowlers in the state. In the bowling community the Neymeyer-Larson duo became known as The Two Headed Monster. Neymeyer says, "It's fun to bowl with Brock as the number one bowler, it keeps us motivated to beat each other as well as the other team. We make it a friendly competition." Having number one and two on the same team, this is rare in Iowa bowling. Larson says, "I'm really glad I joined the bowing team my sophomore year. Met some amazing friends and fell in love with an amazing sport."

During Bowling season the Lancer Bowling team has a themed practice every week on Thursday's. This years themes included, Pajama day, USA and Jersey day among others. As the season got going players started using the theme's as a way to express themselves on the lane in a new way, Aaron Vandivier, 12, says "As a team we use Theme Thursday's as a way to express who we are and as a way to come together as a team, which I think benefits everyone."

Honor Music

Gabe Jensen, 12, tells us about the challenges of SEISTA honor orchestra, "We would have to submit the last solo we did at solo fest. It's pretty easy to make that orchestra, but once you're there you audition for chair placement. Top 2-3 chair makes the state level honor orchestra ISTA. ISTA is harder to make but it's a really fun and challenging experience. Learning the music on your own time, playing with the top orchestra members in the state, as well as hours of rehearsing and practicing for a finalized concert is all really fun and pushes me to become a better musician."

Come November, all the hard work done to achieve this goal pays off when given the amazing opportunity to perform with 600 other singers from all around Iowa."

Among The Stars

The Iowa State Thespian Festival is a convention for theatre troupes across the state of Iowa. The festival is held at University of Northern Iowa. This year, Lancer Productions had many individual events compete along with Tech Challenge. The students who have the opportunity to compete at the International Thespian Festival in June are Cooper Harrison with Nightingale in short film and Torrance Lange in costume design. Lastly, Kaitlyn Bendickson, Elena Kook and Connor Oetzmann with Playwriting 101: The Rooftop Lesson in Ensemble Acting. Nicole Blodig, a junior was hand selected to be a light designer in the Iowa All State Cabaret. The cast was made up of Thespians from different schools across the state. When asked what it was like working in this show, Nicole said "It was interesting to see how other schools ran their tech programs and how we differed from them. With LP, we have a lot of stuff that most schools don't have, like new light boards, sound boards and new equipment. It was cool to work with people with different experiences because it let me see a new perspective and try new things I haven't before." Tech challenge placed 3rd overall for scores, Hunter Frerichs placed first in Light Hang for the second year in a row. Joie Stoefen ran for State Thespian Officer and received the honor to serve as the Chapter Board Chair. She is 1 of 8 students from across Iowa that were selected for this position.

A World Of Pure Imagination

Five lucky golden ticket finders found their way to Mr. Wonka's factory in the North Scott High School auditorium this winter! With a mostly student run production, Lancer Productions made magic happen once again with Charlie and the Chocolate Factory. The directors of the fantastic production were Hannah Krebs and Alexis Raleigh, both seniors who had their hearts set on doing this show since The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe last year. When asked why they picked this show, Hannah explained with a little glimmer in her eyes, "I grew up watching the movies non-stop, and when I was given the opportunity to direct the children's show for my senior year, I knew it had to be this one." It was not any easy show to do, but with all the hard work that everyone from the cast and the crew put into it, it made the show unforgettable. Glory Hansel, who played Violet Beauregarde, explained her reason why this show was unforgettable for her, "Many challenges came with chewing gum throughout an entire performance, my favorite, and my most fond memory was when I had to cut gum out of my hair after I blew up." While the children got into all sorts of mischief in the factory, there were little people who were hard at work. These little people, called Oompa Loompas, were show-stealing puppets made by Seth Chappell of Foam Foolery. As with every puppet he makes, these little men, all played by amazing young actresses, stole the hearts of many young children. Joie Stoefen, the puppet captain, said "Having the opportunity to collaborate and work with a group of puppeteers was super duper exciting. Everyone was super excited to take on the challenge of full body puppets- not a lot of professional have this chance, so we were extremely lucky. Becoming an Oompa Loompa was all about the physical and vocal components. We were a cohesive group when we spoke, and tried our best to walk in sync as well. While working well together, we had to figure out our own character. Oompa Loompas are these crazy characters that require the most creative ideas, and it was a total honor to bring them to life!" Just like Charlie got the keys to the Factory at the end of the show, the young talent that Lancer Productions stage has got the keys to many audience members' hearts in another amazing show!

Singing On A High note

Singing brighter as ever! North Scott choirs partake in another amazing year of vocal perfection. North Scott choir groups involve North Scott Singers, Women's Chorale, Treble Clef Chorus, and Bass Clef Chorus. Earlier in the year North Scott singers traveled to the KC Renaissance Festival; singers dressed in festive renaissance attire while singing to the festival goers. When the group had returned from the festival, it was time for the choirs to crack down and prepare for all state. Once again for the second year in a row, the choir program has been struck with amazement as nineteen students had been selected for all state! Reaching towards Christmas, the choirs held the traditional Christmas program and left audience members in tears as O Holy Night was sung to conclude the program. Natalie Romanick, was one of the seniors who had the opportunity to sing a duet within the song; a tradition held every year that senior members sing a duet. Natalie was asked to speak a little about her time in choir, and her feeling towards her accomplishments, this includes being a part of the nineteen allstaters. Natalie said, “choir has been an incredible experience for me throughout high school. For someone who used to be really shy and introverted, engaging with others through music has made a massive impact on how I communicate. Choir, and music in general, has helped me appreciate the importance of the arts in everyday life, and its ability to bring people together.” Natalie is an example of the outstanding students within the choir program. All the choirs work tremendously hard to put on shows that show meaning, and always end up impressing the crowds. After All State, the choirs began to prepare for small group contests, preparing for the spring concert, the last parade of choirs, and even singing at graduation.

By: Morgan Schueller, 12

"Being in Bass Clef Chorus is overall a really great experience. As a whole we can support an amazing sound but still add elements that other ensembles don't usually. Specifically our dance moves. It is a great way to entertain the crowd and Mr. Skyles is a great teacher in a way that makes certain we maintain a great sound while executing our dance moves well. Also this year we performed at an event called “Spudraiser,” a fundraiser that put money towards our Jazz Choir. It was a great experience, performing for an audience at a different event, and inviting a new crowd. Bass Clef is a chorus that continues to grow and develop a better sound while finding more and more ways to entertain our audience."

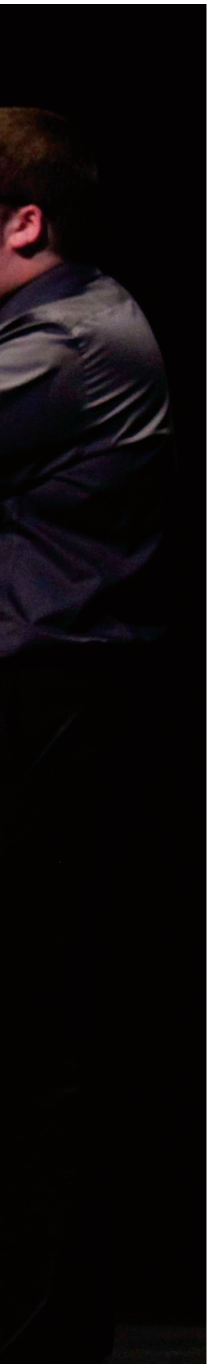
Jazz Experience

"This year we played various Blues, Swing, Funk, Ballad, and Latin charts from various arrangers and composers. We hd many performances throughout the year such as our seasonal concerts at the school, NIU Jazz Day at Northern Illinois University, SEIBA Jazz festival (Where we compete against other high schools for a chance to compete at state), the Redstone Room at the River Music Experience, and sometimes at smaller events such as University of Iowa's Latin Jazz Day. The North Scott Jazz Band in the past has also received many honors such as numerous awards, competing at the Iowa Jazz Championships, the Iowa Bandmasters Association conference, and as well as being one of 15 schools across the u.s to compete at Jazz at Lincoln Centers Essentially Ellington competition in 2009. For visiting artists we have performed with, and seen live, jazz artists such as Marcus Printup, Victor Goines, Dennis Mackrel, Wycliffe Gordon, Reggie Thomas, Derrick Gardner, Ali Jackson, and more. This year the atmosphere is very fun, very friendly, competitive, and just one big family. Everyone is friends with everyone, some people even get together to play outside of school."
- Derek Friederichs



Playing With all That Jazz

Jazz band and choir both got jazzy with it through music. Due to the extreme weather causing for so many snow days, many of the events that both jazz band and jazz choir were meant to attend, had been postponed, canceled, or they couldn't make it. Though, weather didn't stop the jazz bands or choirs from doing what they have a passion for. Jazz band managed to share their amazing talent at the Redstone Room at the River Music Experience. The jazz bands as well put on various shows to showcase their wonderful playing skills. Jazz band even put on a Christmas breakfast and celebrated their talented groups together. The jazz choirs on the other hand managed to travel to Liberty High School and sing to judges amongst other jazz choirs from surrounding school districts. At Liberty High, the jazz choirs performed various pieces and received feedback to help improve the groups. A few days after attending the Liberty High jazz festival, North Scott hosted State Jazz, and all groups successfully performed to the judges and received high notes of compliments. Despite the weather being tremendously terrible and making events nearly impossible to attend, jazz band and choir managed to deliver wonderful performances and play their jazzy music.

A Year Of Change

North Scott Students had the privilege of meeting a few new students this year from several different countries. Foreign Exchange Students Mara Schindler, Ida Krogh, Sofie Nijboer, and Pichrada Kaewpratas got to not only experience American culture but also the Lancer spirit! Mara Schindler arrived from Germany excited to try American foods and to experience American traditions and holidays. Sofie Nijboer from the Netherlands also was very excited to spend time here in America, specifically Christmas and Thanksgiving. Back home Sofie loved to hang out with her friends and play field hockey. Ida Krogh arrived from Sweden, very eager to join her new classmates in cheering on the Lancers and to experience American High School. Ida spent lots of her time on the cheerleading team and performed in the winter production of Charlie and the Chocolate Factory. Finally, even though her time here at North Scott was short, Pichrada, much like the others, was very excited to learn about American culture, improve her English, and tell her new friends about her life back in Thailand. Pichrada often hung out with her friends Evelyn Bauer and Kathryn Allen after school working on homework and going to football games. Meanwhile, Mara, Ida, and Sofie became very good friends with each other and spent lots of time together with their new friends. North Scott Students were very lucky to be able to meet these 4 individuals, forever having an international best friend.

New Journey

One question that we asked all four of the foreign exchange students was why did you want to study abroad? Sofie Nijboer, 10 said "To experience different cultures other than my own." Pichrada Kaewpratas, 11 said "I wanted to experience more with American culture and trying American foods." Ida Krogh, 10 said "I like traveling and I wanted to experience American High School." Mara Schindler, 11 said that "it was an easy way to study American culture and experience a different school system."

Britney 4 Hunger

For the first time ever, North Scott had won the skit competition for the student hunger drive. Using a skit created by senior Hayden Lightle, the student government class danced and sang to a hunger drive version of a Britney Spears mash-up. Winning comes with the trophy of a 2,000 pound head start of food. Hayden Lightle, 12, mentions when they won and what they were feeling, “we were all so happy to have put this work in and finally win the skit part for once. Last year when we came in 3rd, I told everyone that I was going to be in charge of it and then we won!” This sets the bar high for what would come next. Having an original goal of 22,000, the school raised a total of 22,602 pounds of food! Senior Alexis Raleigh, talks about how she thought the hunger drive went compared to past years, "this year we were able to collect a lot of cans, as students and staff all made an effort to contribute! The entire community was very supportive of our goals, which helped us surpasses our expectations." Even though the hunger drive is ran by Student Government, they wouldn't have been able to do it without the entire school district, fore which they are thankful.

You're Somebody's Type

Being able to give blood may be a simple and easy task, but it makes a huge difference towards the lives of others. North Scott students and staff participate in the blood drive this school year. One donation session occurred last fall and another in the spring. Staff and students recall feeling a sense of satisfaction and happiness after making their blood donation. But what makes them feel so fulfilled? Students were able to give us an insight of what the experience was like. Junior Maddison Heppe was asked why they gave blood."I give blood because it helps other people who need it." Heppe added, "I felt a little dizzy, but it was also a really fun experience and I'm glad I did it because I know it went to help other people who needed it."

Student Built Home

The homebuilding program at North Scott is many students' first real opportunity to work in the construction trades. Seniors who take homebuilding get hands on experience throughout every process it takes to build a house. Many of these senior boys will move on to work in the construction trades one way or another. This year one of the students who plans to pursue a career in the trades is Carson Youngquist. He says, "Homebuilding has shown me many new things that have to do with the trades. It has shown me what careers I might and might not want to purse in the future". Although not every homebuild student will enter the trades after high school, the students still gain universal skills that are important in other careers or even as a future home owner. Dalton Hanenburg, who plans on studying agriculture in college, says, "Some day I will be able to work on my own house without calling someone to fix it for me and I have learned how to think critically to work around problems that come up."

Art Everywhere

After the completion of the renovation, art students got the opportunity to display their artwork on the curved red wall in the auditorium lobby. During shows and concerts, guests were able to look at students work during intermission or as they arrived. Art work ranged from photography, water color, pen and ink images, Photoshop work, and paintings. Many students are featured on the wall, making the red wall another way to display and spread artwork throughout the high school. In addition to the red wall, students achieved many other accomplishments and went on several field trips. On one field trip during the fall, select students traveled to St. Ambrose University to work with graphic design and silk screening different pieces of art onto different materials such as t-shirts and wood. Art students had many successes as well. Art student, Ethan Jost's, graphic design of raccoons painting on the moon was chosen to be featured on the Figge Art Museum merchandise t-shirts. Teacher Michele Mess also directed students to paint a mural on the E Hallway and design several paintings and patterns on different tables. Art students had a very successful year and have learned many different forms of art!

Winter Academics

During the winter months, students continued to study hard. Many student-athletes worked to find a balance between school assignments and team practices to reach their final goal of making it to the state tournament. This time of year it is important to study even harder because of the days missed for athletic accomplishments. This year was especially challenging when juggling academics and extracurriculars because of the record amount of missed school due to weather. North Scott accumulated over a week of worth of snow days, putting classes behind schedule and pushing the last day of school further into June. In addition, winter is a challenging time for academics because students are tired of being cooped up inside. This made it even harder for students to concentrate, study hard, and keep their grades up. Despite the brutally cold weather, record number of snow days, and cabin fever, North Scott students continued to succeed academically.

Helping Out Around the community

Hard work and helping hands. North Scott FFA prides themselves with the hard work they show throughout the community. Whether it's participating in the homecoming parade (left) or representing North Scott during the Iowa State Fair (middle) or collaborating with Iowa State (right), this FFA Chapter loves every second of their community service. Reporter Ceandra Staub, 11, agrees "The best part of FFA is watching our chapter grow and being awarded for our accomplishments."

Learning Leadership

This determined FFA chapter works hard to get their three star ranking at Nationals, which happens to be the highest rank. At Nationals, October 23 to the 26th, the NS FFA chapter earned three stars as well as finished second in the state. This is the best North Scott has ever placed. Though this chapter prides themselves on the wins and the awards, they also pride themselves on the special friendships and bonds they have created. President Katie Seeman, senior, says "FFA is like a family because everyone is working together to help each other grow. Whether it's with speaking skills or a certain topic area, there is always someone who is willing to help."

Boys Of Summer

For the 2018 season North Scott baseball had a different look for the coaching position. At the beginning of the 2018 season Brad Ward and Travis Ralfs took over as co-head coaches. Ralfs and Ward were long time assistant coaches before stepping up at head coaches. Senior Payton Dieckman says, "The two coaches brought us a lot of energy and I think their input really motivated us as a whole team to grow and push for the state tournament." In the first season under Ward and Ralfs the boys finished the regular season with a record of 26-10.The season didn't end at the end of the regular season. The boys of summer made a great late season run where they finished there season in Principal Park in the state-quarter final. The players felt that having two coaches was an advantage, senior Gordy Field says, "The different coaching styles helped all the players to stay relaxed and remember the ultimate goal was always state."

Lobby Ribbon Cutting

On Monday evening Oct. 1st, the community came together to celebrate the official opening of the new lobby and auditorium ribbon cutting. Many preparations went into the decision making process of the new look. Artsy colors of red, gray, and purple for a pop of color fill the new design. All the fine art areas were taken into consideration of the new space and design. The theater was revamped for the tech crew to have a space to do their sound and lighting with ease. The lobby was given space for music to be played and the red wall for the artwork to be professionally displayed, with room for people to meander, listen, and gaze at everything from photos to the glass orbs done by North Scott art students. “Having some of my artwork on the red wall allows me to fully express my creativity to any person that sees it. I feel very proud and happy that not only my work was presented, and that many people are able to look at it whenever they want! It is a very awesome opportunity to have my work presented where all my friends and family can see!” says junior Shannon Moore. "I love having my artwork displayed, and the red wall helps me do just that. Sometimes I feel like art in itself, is just thrown to the side. The red wall helps bring art to life again, and that is just an amazing thing to be apart of." says sophomore Ryann Cheek.

Order In the Court

The 2018-2019 mock trial team had many different obstacles to face this year. With a new coach and unpredictable weather, the team had to adjust around the circumstances. Kara Rohlf, a sophomore, and her second year on the team says, "our overall season went pretty well. This year was a major learning curve for everyone. We got a new coach and learned some valuable information that will help us be better prepared next year. A major thing we are looking forward to for next season is less snow days. We lost a lot of valuable time to prepare our case and train the freshman. Given the circumstances we had both teams pulled together to create a well prepared case." Kara was on the Red team, which lost by .5 of a point. The team is looking forward for next year with new experienced they've gained.

Going Down In History

The National History Day is an educational program where they hold an annual competition for middle school to high school students and teachers all around. Students are required to research a historical topic and conduct a project based upon their topic of interest. The theme for this year was “Triumph & Tragedy.” This year, North Scott students have been actively participating for the competition by attending to the similarly named club. The advisor's for the club this year consists of Mrs. Green, Mr. Greenwood, and Mrs. Blodig. The North Scott History Day club were able to attend to the regional competition at St. Ambrose. Freshman Aviana Holst gives us an insight on her experience at the competition. The regional competition was exhilarating, the actual competition was nerve-wracking, but the awards ceremony afterwards was amazing." Holst describes. "Everyone from North Scott sits together in a group, and we usually are the largest group. Whenever someone from North Scott moves on to State of receives an award, everyone is always cheering each other on. It feels like a shared success, even if you don’t advance."

All In, All The Time

Be One. The theme for this years North Scott Softball team "Be One" has stuck with the girls and the softball community on and off the field. Within their biggest wins and their toughest losses, the girls remained together. Falling short on the trip to Fort Dodge, Junior Sam Lee said, "Things did not quiet go our way this year, but next year we are going to be hungry to get to state and perform well at a high level." The determination o North Scott's Softball Team can not be overlooked. With just simple basehits and a well hit ball by Abby Moeller, these girls were able to sweep Burlington giving them memorable "Walk off" moments.. These girls fought until the very last out of the game against Keokuk. The loss added to the fire of determination that these girls will bring into next season.

I Put Too Many E's In SPEECH!

While some people went off to sunny, warm places for spring break, Lancer Productions and North Scott Speech Team members put on their working shoes to set up for state speech. North Scott hosted over 3,500 students from schools all over the southeast district of Iowa, making it a very eventful day. Student and parent volunteers alike were room chairs, who announced what each event was, timers, who timed events, runners who ran results to the main office, and even shushers who kept the hallways quiet during the events. There were even some volunteers who had to comfort upset participants and step out of their comfort zone for what they had to do. Molly Burgmeier, 11, says, "It was a long day but we got thespian points so that's cool." Many people who worked it said that even though it was a very long, 12 hour day, it was fun to see all the different performances and meet new people, so it was a success! Ben Leik, 12, who was there to make up detentions said "It was a good day but my favorite part was when I got to watch a kid act like a cat and dog for 6 minutes straight, which he got disqualified for being over his 5 minute mark, but he didn't care." Many people were not looking forward to the day in the beginning, but everybody by the end of the day said that it was worth it and they had a lot of fun!

Student Government

A new year brought new events. Student government came into this year for a whole new span of ideas. A start would be the change in decorating for homecoming. In past years, the student government would paint windows of businesses around town to show everyone how exciting homecoming was; however, this year brought a downpour of rain. To make up for what they missed, it was decided to decorate the halls of the high school. Senior Brooke Baldwin, talks about how the decision affected school moral saying, "Decorating the halls was a great way to get many students involved with homecoming! It was awesome seeing how much everyone appreciated the decor and it really boosted the hype for homecoming!" Not only was decorating for homecoming something new and exciting, but it seemed that the entire school was uplifted by things student government did. Another thing added this year was lancer legacy projects. These are projects that are meant to benefit others in some way. Gordy Field, 12, talks about his project, "For my project, I pursued the idea of having a sidewalk installed on first street, in front of the high school. I was very passionate about this because I feel it represented the class of 2019 and was a great symbol to remember a great class." There are many more great projects from other students, which hopefully we'll see in years to come.

What's Good

Trends come and go throughout the years. Though, many stick with us and impact our experiences in high school. Who can forget the year the Silver Shakers got Nordic Beach Wraps, and the next moment every girl was sporting the bear rug looking sweaters. During the year many trends such as clout glasses, scrunchies, Burts Bees, Glossier, Vera Bradley lanyards, and many more items came about. When asked about this years trends, Mikayla Carlton, 11 said "I think trends really built off of famous influencers like Emma Chamberlain and once a few people started wearing things like Nordic Beach wraps and scrunchies they just became something that everyone wears. Its cool to see everyone wearing the same stuff but still putting their own individual style into it."

This year GSA had their first full year as a club. Being very different with a whole new crew of members and committee, Hallie Belk was nominated as this years president. Hallie talks about what it was like having a full year of GSA saying, "the difference in having a full year was that everything was much more coordinated! Since we had a full team of officers helping in various ways, we were always on top of what to do. GSA really is a fun thing to be in! Not matter if you're gay, a straight ally, or just want a place to hang out-GSA is here for you!" Some of the weekly activities consist of thinking of fundraising ideas, play games to get to know each other more, and occasionally watch movies. As the second year comes to a close, we hope to gather more and more members.

Math Club was created this year by seniors, Slater Williams, Collin Wiersema, and math teacher, Mrs. Johnson. Mrs. Johnson recruited other members from her math classes and the club was formed. The group was initially formed to prepare for the American Mathematics Competition. They met once a week to work on difficult math problems. "Pastel Competition is an incredible event to experience
Gathering with fellow art peers and friends to conceptualize the piece was relaxing. We had fun, but got what we needed done in a timely matter.
The day of the competition was obviously the most exciting. The entire twelve hours was filled with fun, sweat, and the smell of many layers of sunscreen. Our hands, knees, and not to mention our faces were dusted with the pigmented chalk even after the competition was over.
Seeing the piece you poured hours of hard work into set up against others art while guests take photos gives you such an unbelievable sense of pride."

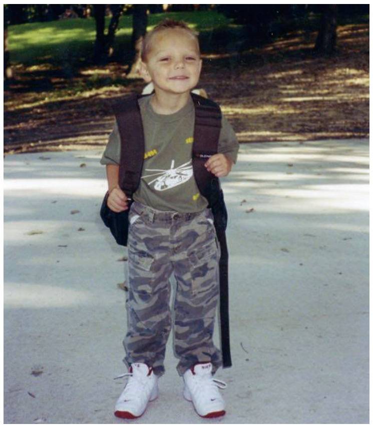
Daddy



Dear Cade,
I dreamed of you when you were so tiny in my stomach no one could see you, but me. I dreamed of you when I was bent over a toilet until there was nothing left. You were my dream before the world got to share you.
I dreamed of you when I snuggled your warm body after a bad dream or a bout with the flu.
I dreamed of you when I held your hand and walked you to your first day of kindergarten I waited patiently for you to get off the bus so we could share fresh baked cookies and stories of your first day from beginning to end.
When the school office number appeared on my phone I had a hunch you forgot your lunch.
When you were reprimanded and all you could do was grin, I thought here we go again.
When you got mad, with a little coaxing after a while we could once again see your infectious smile.
I dreamed of you as I watched you run onto the football field for the very first time.
I had my eye on you the whole time praying you would not get hurt as you landed in the dirt.
The challenges and adversities that you faced over the years have brought me to tears and made me want to scream out loud.
Nevertheless, knowing that you have overcome those feats and landed on top, we have to let you know you have made us so proud and we know that nothing will make you stop.
You were my dream before your very first breath. I carried you in my heart, and in my soul and I still do. Be patient with me as I learn to let you go. I dreamed of you and here you are. Ready to fly and I still dream…
We love you more than you know! Congratulations Cade Canyon!

NORTH SCOTT HIGH SCHOOL

As we sat and watched the creation of last year's book we knew that some things has to change. We needed the book to be clean, well edited and most importantly, we needed to have a consistent theme that mattered to our school and to us. We decided on unity early on because we felt this community really knows how to come together for anyone in time of celebration or tragedy. Sometimes we take being a student at North Scott for granted until we remember that everyone will always be there. Whether it's a state tournament, musical or dance it's just a given that there is constant support for everyone. We have never worked on anything harder than we have for this book, for all of you. Long days and late nights went into preserving these memories to ensure you can look back in 30 years and remember what it was like to be in high school.

We would like to thank Mrs. Hintze for taking the time to look over our little articles, Mrs. Mess for being a VERY trusting adviser and letting us completely take over and make this 100% ours, our extremely dedicated staff for following our lead and working so hard on the creation of this book, and you, a North Scott student, for making these memories and going with the flow whenever someone asked you for a photo, no matter how weird it sounded.

Thank You
Editors Grace Coffman & Ben Leik

Spring

As the school year comes to a close, high school spring activities are in full swing. The community comes together to support the Lancer Productions show, Seussical the Musical, track and soccer struggle with rain delays, but they don't let it stop them, Battle of the Books defend their championship title for the 4th year in a row, and girls golf goes strong, despite their small team.
As the community is preparing for the end of the school year, they continue to show the same the support shown throughout the year.

Kick, Run, Score!

The North Scott girls soccer team has been through their ups and downs but always come out with their heads held high. The girls have been doing their best to come together as a team. Chloe Engelbrecht, 11, says, “Teamwork and friendship is what makes the girls soccer team stronger than the rest of the MAC.” Dedication and determination lead them to success. They may not always be on top at the end of the match, but they are always winners on and off the field when working as a team.

It's Not About The Wins And Loses

This years boy's tennis season has been filled with ups and downs. Both Varsity and Junior Varsity have experienced wins and loses throughout the season. Senior, Hayden Lightle, says, "I've only played one match this year, and I won, so basically I'm undefeated." Other players have also been experiencing the ups and downs Brock Larson, 12, says, "It's not about the wins and loses at the end of the day, its about getting out and enjoying the time spent playing tennis." This years tennis team has had an increase in participation, this years team had a total of 34 people on just the boys team. Coach Todd Satterly says, " It was a very fun year with this group of guys. Of the 34 kids out this year, only 12 are returning members. I picked up several young men due to suspensions, which made our roster bigger than usual. The kids all came to practice and worked every day. No issues what so ever. Lots of personalities! That is for sure. The entertainment value was off the charts. :) I think some of the newcomers will come out next year as well. Overall, very pleasurable season."

This year Lancer Productions' spring musical, "Seussical" brought all things Seuss to the North Scott stage. Between acting, dancing, costuming, hair and makeup, pit orchestra and all things tech, students made the magic of Dr. Seuss come to life. This musical goes through the stories of The Cat in the Hat, Horton the Elephant, Mr. and Mrs. Mayor Who, Jojo, and many more. It also premiered Mrs. Hintze's baby, Amelia's musical debut as she played the elephant bird. With a brand new choreographer, new location of the pit orchestra, intense vocal and physical training, and new tech positions, the cast and crew's hard work and dedication over the course of three and a half months paid off with 2,777 tickets sold and overwhelmingly positive reviews from the community.

Swinging Into Action

As the year came to an end, the girls golf team worked harder than ever. This years golf team bonded together through their various meets. The season started off with many rain filled days causing delays and cancellations. However, many of the girls on the team boosted about their hopes for the team, and stressed how each and everyone of the girls are bonding. This year it just so happens that the girls golf team lacks seniors and is strictly freshman, sophomores, and juniors. The girls on the team had put forward much effort to make sure the that the team was even stronger than before despite missing senior players. As well, this was the first year of coaching golf for Coach Wood. Jillian Thies was asked about her experience with golf this year and she had said "we're a young team and working together as a group to get even better."

Aim High, Let It Fly

Ready, Set, Shoot! The North Scott Archery Team had an outstanding year, it brought unexpected challenges, especially due to weather cancellations but it also brought positive experiences. Lily Bendickson, a sophomore, said "The most memorable part of the season was the amount of people and practices because they were relaxing and it was really a good time to hang out with people and have fun together. After each practice and before a tournament Zach Garrard would give a little motivational speech and it was always a good time to see what he had to say." The number of archers from last year to this year was a huge jump, it had doubled in size. Due to this jump, it was overwhelming at first but as the season went on the team found a way to manage the chaos. As the season was coming to an end the Archery team ended up making the season a fantastic way to end it by qualifying for the State tournament this year. They took the top 24 individual archers that qualified to Des Moines to compete in the tournament. It showed that their hard work and dedication paid off.

We Shoot For Excellence

Aim, wait, shoot, hit. The North Scott Trap Team prides themselves on the many wins they have had at their meets. Grace Bjustrom, a junior at North Scott, appreciates all the good luck she has had, individually and as a a team, "It is very humbling to be a female competitor having been ranked top in the state and in the nation. Even though the sport is commonly viewed as an individual sport, without the whole team having my back and pushing me none of my individual accomplishments would have been attainable." Not only is trap about the wins, but it is also about the team that has turned into life long friends. Addie Kilian, a senior at North Scott, went on to add “The trapshooting community is very close-knit, everyone knows each other. Trapshooting has introduced me to many new friendships I would have never had otherwise.” Therefore proving the trap team is also about the binding, and bonding, of friendships. Though trap is about the sport, the friendships and the wins, it is also a good way to keep students and generations, of all ages, educated about gun safety, Addie states, "Trap benefits me by teaching me gun safety and discipline I can use the rest of my life."

Emma's Quote
"It's not what you are that holds you back. It's what you think you are not" -Denis Waitley

Colin's Quote
"Our greatest fear should not be of failure... but of succeeding at things in life that don't really matter."- Francis Chan

Caleb's Quote
"Do your homework"

National Honor Society

National Honor Society is built upon four pillars: scholarship, service, leadership, and character. North Scott's chapter of NHS has worked hard all year to ensure all four of these pillars are met. The group met the first week of every month to discuss possible service activities. Some of these projects are creating Thanksgiving and Christmas cards for Grand Haven residents, serving pizza to special needs high school students at the Happy Joe's Pizza Party, and supplying the Blessing Box with non-perishable food and personal care items for a month. Abby McKay, senior, explains that her favorite service project was supplying the blessing box because, "It felt great to provide some necessities for underprivileged families in our community." Looking ahead, the new inductees are excited for next year and ready to represent National Honor Society well.

Dance for a Cure

The North Scott Mini Dance Marathon is an event hosted every year by North Scott students. It is a smaller version of the University of Iowa's Dance Marathon where all of the proceeds go to the University of Iowa Children's Hospital to help kids in need. On March 23, 2019, North Scott's Mini Dance Marathon raised money for the Iowa Children's Hospital as well. This year, students danced for 8 hours raising a total of $8,381.66. The night was filled with zumba, led by the very pregnant Mrs. Knight, family speakers, live music from Gabe Jensen, 12, Jenna Willet, 11, Avery Rowlands, 12, and 2018 graduate Cale Bowe, dinner, and of course, dancing for the kids.
